CHAPTER X

Why Woodrow Wilson First Opposed and Then Favored Woman Suffrage.

Woodrow Wilson's attitude toward the opposite sex was one of chivalrous admiration. He was infatuated with the conversation of brilliant women and never seemed wittier than in the company of alert men and women. His conversation was often witty and brilliant.

Almost always in private talks on and even in public speeches Mr. Wilson referred to a woman as a "lady" or to women as "ladies." To his mind a woman was something finer than man, finer than politics, finer than life as men lived it. She was a creature to be exalted, put on a pedestal, worshipped, cared for and protected. The idea of a woman going into politics, business and the professions, four square with a man was somewhat offensive to his sensibilities.

Mr. Wilson's prejudices against woman suffrage were founded partly on his belief that the only women interested in woman suffrage were the aggressive, masculine-like, hurled type which was all that in his southern tradition a woman should not be. He actually encountered such types in the early suffrage campaigns and disliked them.

This attitude was continued and his conversion delayed to some extent by the action of the militant suffragettes in picketing the White House in 1915. The militants in England by their violence had confirmed his belief that the type of woman fighting for suffrage was of the female.

He had for many years been opposed to woman suffrage. In 1912 just as he became president-elect he said to a friend:

"The principal objection to giving woman the ballot is that they are too logical. A woman's mind leaps instantly from cause to effect, without any consideration whatever for what

1-YEAR TERMS FOR ALL SUPERVISORS, SAYS CUNNINGHAM

CITY ATTORNEY'S OPINION ON VITAL ELECTION QUESTIONS.

JUDGES ELECTIVE Constables Appointive by City Manager, Not Elective, He Finds.

Ward constables of Janesville are now appointive by the city manager and not elective by the voters of the various wards as has been the case in the past, according to a finding of City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham.

The opinion that supervisors may be elected for terms of only one year applies to all supervisors in Rock county. District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie declared Saturday: "The 1919 legislature passed a law making it optional with county boards to elect supervisors for terms of three years but this law was killed in the last legislature, he said.

submitted to the city clerk, Saturday. Justices of the peace, however, continue as elective offices, the city attorney holds.

Superior in the city are elective or one year terms only and not for two years, says Mr. Cunningham, in another important ruling.

As a result of the city attorney's opinions, supervisors will be elected

Egyptians Declare Deposition of Caliph Act Contrary to Law.

London.—The Egyptian Ulama (Mohammedan wise men) have issued a manifesto in which they declare that the deposition of the caliph at Constantinople is an illegal act by persons who have no voice in the matter.

The Ulama, who are the spiritual leaders of the Moslems, have issued a general declaration in accordance with law.

The Daily Telegraph has received, through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, a dispatch from Jerusalem declaring it is expected that the Arabs of Palestine and Syria will join in a proclamation of King Hussein of the Hedjaz as Caliph within the next few days, and that great celebrations are being prepared.

A conference of the Arab states will open at Kowat on March 15, when it is likely Hussein will be formally proclaimed caliph of the Moslems of the whole Arabian peninsula.

$5,000 LOSS IN BLAZE AT EVANSVILLE

Evansville.—More than $5,000 damage was done to the $12,000 two-story Fisher house, Madison and Church streets, shortly after noon Saturday, when fire was discovered on the roof.

Before it was extinguished it had destroyed the roof and damaged the interior.

Furniture of the two families which occupy the house, H. A. Lanzetta and William Bewick, was rescued by neighbors. Loss is entirely covered by insurance.

Mr. Bewick is a partner in the grain and feed warehouse which was badly damaged by fire several months ago.

Quick Action on Income Tax Reduction Is Urged on Houses of Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—The houses of congress are being urged to take instant action with reference to the 25 per cent reduction on the income of the calendar year 1923 payable on the 15th of this month.

The general tax revision effective upon 1923 incomes now appears inevitable. Both the republicans and democrats are agreed that the present law can more readily be amended by the passage of a joint resolution which refers only to 1923 incomes so that consideration of the whole tax question may not be complicated with the problems before the American taxpayers who are working out their returns this month.

The democrats would like to see the joint resolution put into effect not with a 25 per cent reduction but along the line but with the 1923 rates. This would mean in the case of smaller incomes a greater reduction

"As far as I'm concerned," he said, "I'm willing to throw up the sponge."

At the meetings delegates were chosen for the county democratic meetings today at which delegates to the state convention to be held at Springfield, April 13, are being selected. Reed had made a speaking campaign of the state in an effort to get instructed delegations for him in his candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination.

NEW FOUNDRY TO EMPLOY 60

Construction and operation in Janesville of a malleable iron foundry giving employment to 60 men by the Clancy Malleable Corporation was announced Saturday by President A. R. Clancy. It marks another step in the expansion program of this concern, which also operates a plant at Watkesh.

Work on the erection of a 20-ton air furnace for melting the iron, and erection of a 50-foot smokestack in the foundry building on South River street, formerly used for gray iron by the Samson Tractor Company, starts Monday, and is expected to be completed so that the plant will be going "full blast" May 1.

Explosion Cuts off Workers in Earth; Fear Fire

Cash Bonus Option Is Beaten

Castle Gate, Utah.—One hundred and seventy-five men, employed in the day shift of the Utah Fuel company mine number 2, were entombed by an explosion at 9 a. m. today.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by an accumulation of dust. Smoke and dust are pouring from the mouth of the mine here at the present time, but it has not been determined whether the interior of the mine is alive.

Relief trains on way.

The mine is about one mile and a half from the company's offices here and messengers are being employed to carry information to the company headquarters.

The mine was operating with a normal force of 175 men on the day shift, according to Mr. Carnley, the shift having entered the mine at 7:30 a. m.

Castle Gate is 11 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. Word of the disaster has been sent to Salt Lake and a call issued for all available doctors and nurses. A special train bearing the doctors and nurses has left that place for Castle Gate, according to Mr. Carnley.

None Rescued at Noon.

A call also has been issued for a mine rescue car from the Bureau of Mines. At noon it was announced that company officers here and no bodies had been taken from the mine and that, up to that hour, none of the entombed miners had been rescued alive.

HOTEL CAMPAIGN PASSES $50,000; DRIVE DRAGGING

Subscriptions to the proposed new $50,000 hotel for Janesville totaled $24,460 when they were checked at the State Bank. This was announced at headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce.

$100,000 or No Hotel

"There is an erroneous idea going the rounds that the new hotel will be built whether the $100,000 is raised in Janesville or not," said H. H. Hiltz, campaign manager, Saturday. "There is a lot of talk about it, but the money is not raised there will be no hotel. That's all there is to that."

Interest in the hotel is very great.

DAUGHERTY REFUSES TO GIVE NAMES

Washington.—Notified by the department of justice today that the names of the two representatives referred to in the Chicago grand jury's report would not be disclosed, for the present at least, the house instructed its judicial committee immediately to recommend a course of action.

Attorney General Daugherty, called on by a house resolution to furnish the names, replied he could not make the public until evidence was in his possession pointing to the guilt of the members accused.

claiming the downfall of the Glucksburg dynasty, the immediate representative of which, King George and Queen Elizabeth, are exiled in Romania.

Kefandaris has held out in favor of a referendum to decide the fate of the dynasty, while the opposition, including the republican deputies and a large faction in the army, demands abolition of the dynasty and proclamation of a republic in the national assembly. The opposition has contended that grave consequences would threaten the country should the result of a referendum be unfavorable to the establishment of a republic.

Athens.—The cabinet of Premier Kefandaris has resigned. The Kefandaris cabinet was formed on Jan. 11 last to succeed that of Eleutherios Venizelos, who retired because of ill health. It has been under fire on the question of pro-

'PRINCIPAL' CHARGE DENIED BY CURTIS IN OIL INQUIRY

NO GROUND FOR LINKING HIM WITH INCIDENT, HE SWEARS.

WILLING WITNESS Kansas Senator Voluntarily Takes Stand to Answer Newspaper Man.

Washington.—Senator Curtis of Kansas, the assistant republican leader, took the witness stand voluntarily before the oil committee today and denied under oath some of the statements made about him yesterday in the testimony of Ira E. Bennett, an editorial writer for the Washington Post.

The Kansas senator declared that some of the conversations described by Bennett never took place, that he had performed no services for Edward B. McLean like those attributed to him by Bennett, and that there was absolutely no ground for attempting to link him with the mysterious "principal" mentioned in one of Bennett's telegrams to McLean.

Later, Bennett again was called upon to explain. He repeated some of his previous statements and brought in some new ones, which in turn were denied by Senator Curtis. The editorial writer did not contend, however, that there had been anything improper in the senator's attitude toward the oil discovery.

The committee also heard E. S. Rochester, of the department of justice, who telegraphed McLean that the committee was investigating his bank account, and Francis T. Homer, Baltimore, who was quoted in one McLean telegram as saying the leased well situated between Washington and the McLean cottage in Palm Beach would give "easy access" to the White House.

The "principal" telegram, sent by Bennett to McLean, said that Bennett had seen the "principal" and added there would be "no rocking of the boat and no resigning of the family."

TEACHERS PROVE DELIGHT (?) IN SONG AT SCHOOL

Regret was expressed by many private teachers and an excellent musical organization, and one that gets together in public so seldom, should sing only one number. There seemed to be a general feeling that more than the single air rendered might have been given.

The "musical organization" was the faculty of the Janesville high school, and the "air" was the school song, which they were compelled to render Friday as a forfeit in a novel contest conducted during a "pup meeting" in honor of the basketball game Saturday night.

Some of the instructors seemed to have more "air" than others, but so far as discernible, there was only one in the number who used it to whistle with. In fact, all the others accompanied that one. No specific member of the body has yet been charged with the offense.

Each class and the faculty was required to give the school yell and the group, which was judged to have made the least noise, was obliged to sing. Some teachers are beginning to think it was a "put up job," since there were only about 40 of them present in the room, while the smallest class runs into the hundreds.

The skylight has been covered on the outside for some time.

True Story of Woodrow Wilson

lies between. She thinks too directly to be "franchised"—an illoc. She would run into all sorts of trouble.

"For instance a woman's mind works like this: If she were voting and taking an active part in politics as men do, and if she were surrounded by anxious to accomplish a particular thing she would ignore every obstacle that lay in her path and try to get it done by direct action. Now, in politics or in life you must take cognizance of obstacles, if there are any. Logically they ought not to be there. You cannot always proceed in a direct line. You must meet obstacles as they arise, and deal with them the best way you can, and get around them toward your goal. A woman will not do that. If she can go directly and immediately what seems to her logical, she won't play. That is the reason I think it inadvisable to give the women the ballot now."

Two of Woodrow Wilson's daughters—Margaret and Jessie—were in favor of woman suffrage. In young Margaret's case, her father, who later married the secretary of the treasury, William Gibbs McAdoo, was not at all a suffragette.

The two daughters who favored the cause of suffrage constantly endeavored to persuade Mr. Wilson to change his mind. Three outsiders who were actively trying to convert Mr. Wilson by the slow process of breaking down a prejudice, were Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt; Mrs. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Helen H. Gardener. He later appointed Mrs. Gardener to be a member of the civil service commission.

"When Mr. Wilson finally yielded to the arguments of the suffragettes he said to a friend: 'When I find two of my daughters such ardent suffragettes, passionately devoted to the cause and when I find also such refined cultured ladies as Mrs. Cullen, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Gardener equally devoted and conscientious, I must concede that some of my prejudices were unreasonable, and that the desire for the ballot cannot be limited to the relatively few agitators. A cause which could enlist the enthusiastic, devoted idealistic support of such ladies must be wholesome in its nature and its aims."

In this connection it is worthwhile perhaps to relate the inside story about the picketing of the White House and Mr. Wilson's part in the incident which the militant suffragettes always charged was tyrannical. They blamed him for throwing them into jail. To them Mr. Wilson was represented furiously indignant and as emphasizing the power of the presidency to fight back at them.

The actual facts are that Mr. Wilson did none of these things. The commissioners of the District of Columbia, in whom the police power was vested in Washington, repeatedly urged him to sanction a breaking up of the picketing of the White House. Repeatedly Mr. Wilson said to them: "Let them alone. They don't worry me a particle. If they derive any satisfaction out of parading about the White House or standing with their banners for goodness sake let them do it. I not only do not object but I never think about it. Except when I ride through the gates in the afternoon on my way for a drive. Let them picket to their heart's content."

Later on when the United States severed diplomatic relations with Germany and an international crisis was growing, the district commissioners sent for the leaders of the militant suffrage group and appealed to them to forego picketing because it looked as if the United States would enter the war and it was desirable for all forces of the nation to appear united. They declined. After war was declared the appeal was made again and once more the commissioners urged the president to permit them to break up the parades and the picketing but he refused. At none of these conferences did he reveal the slightest intention about the picketing. His attitude on the other hand was one of amusement. His speech was one of ridicule and he chuckled as he talked.

One day an unusually large crowd gathered in front of the White House and attacked the suffragettes. The police removed were called out and it was with difficulty that the militants were saved from being harm. This finally became a riotous occurrence. There were no arrests made. The clerks were leaving the government departments at 4:30 o'clock. Major Raymond W. Puller, governor of the police, said that he had been a member of the militant suffrage group for years, was accused of inciting the rioters but he was really trying to protect the picketers from harm. He said to Mr. Wilson were of no avail. Finally the secret service, charged under the law with the duty of protecting the White House, took the initiative and cooperating with the police caused the arrest of the suffragettes. This of course was just what they wanted. Mr. Wilson had said: "Don't arrest them. That is exactly what they want." In police

DEPOSED CALIPH IN SWITZERLAND

Arrives With Two Wives and Suite of 10 Persons; Will Remain.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Geneva.—The deposed Caliph, Abdul Mejid, will be allowed to stay in Switzerland on the same conditions imposed in the cases of other refugee rulers, the federal council has decided. The principal of those is an undertaking to refrain from any sort of propaganda or political activity.

The Swiss authorities had not been advised of his coming and the first they knew of it was when the orient express reached the frontier.

SURVEY PARTY IN ALASKAN WILDS

Washington.—The dozen members of the geological survey party headed by Dr. Philip S. Smith, recently named to explore the large unexplored area in Northwestern Alaska, reported to the interior department today their departure from the last outpost of civilization. DEPOSED CALIPH IN SWITZERLAND

Arrives With Two Wives and Suite of 10 Persons; Will Remain.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Geneva.—The deposed Caliph, Abdul Mejid, will be allowed to stay in Switzerland on the same conditions imposed in the cases of other refugee rulers, the federal council has decided. The principal of those is an undertaking to refrain from any sort of propaganda or political activity.

Abdul Mejid, accompanied by his son, two wives and a suite of ten persons, arrived last night at Terriet, on the north shore of Lake Geneva. He brought with him a mountain of baggage.

The Swiss authorities had not been advised of his coming and the first they knew of it was when the orient express reached the frontier.

Insurance Man's Death Natural, Is Coroner Verdict

Superior.—Death of Harry W. Fuller, Superior insurance man, Feb. 5, was the result of natural causes, it was revealed Friday at an autopsy conducted by Coroner A. Z. Downs. The autopsy took place at the request of the Old Line Life Insurance company of Milwaukee, for which Mr. Fuller was general agent. He held $25,000 insurance with this company, $20,000 of which it is claimed had been taken out by him less than a year ago.

The insurance company contested payment of the $20,000. It is alleged on the grounds that Fuller might have committed suicide.

Despite Friday's findings, payment of the amount will be held up pending further examination of various organs in the body. It was pointed out.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

New York.—Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago sailed for Rome on the Heregarline today to be consecrated cardinals by Pope Pius. March 24, at the papal consistory in the Vatican. Several thousand members of various Italian Catholic societies and organizations in this and other cities bid the archbishops farewell at the pier where, however, there was no formal ceremony.

MONEY AND MARKETS

Wall Street, N. Y.—Notwithstanding the development of several discouraging incidents during the past week, the stock market has resisted pressure in excellent fashion and has been able to maintain itself against attack, which has been regarded by experienced observers as almost unprecedented. In ordinary times, the successful of disappointments to which the trading community has been subjected might easily have produced marked recession, but instead of that the level of prices has been not very far from stable, except in a few cases in which values were reduced for some special or peculiar reason.

Obstacles Overcome
Perhaps the most serious obstacle to be overcome by the market has been the news from Washington with regard to the tax bill and the possibility that this bill would be severely mutilated in its progress through the remaining steps of legislative procedure. This situation was, of course, opposed to the hopes with which the market had been stimulated for some time past and the disappointment was correspondingly severe. Nevertheless, latest developments show that there is a very substantial prospect of obtaining a genuine tax reform which, even though not as inclusive as it might be, will yet afford a great deal of relief to business. The oil situation has been another element of disappointing character which has tended somewhat to hurt the stock market outlook, not that there is any immediate prospect of an unfavorable bearing upon actual conditions, but simply that the continued threat of attack on the part of the government naturally discourages enterprise among the concerns which are in possession of oil leases, and seems to postpone still further the prospect of any great development of the business. Even in this case, however, it would seem that the committee has now proved well down toward the bottom of the question and that no new unfavorable developments are to be expected. Another element in the present situation which the market has had to reckon with has been the alarmist rumors constantly given out from Washington about a bad banking situation in the northwest. These, however, have been more and more minimized, being regarded as largely the outgrowth of the political campaign.

Some Favorable Developments
Among the favorable elements of the week's business has been the news from France which traders have interpreted as throwing a very hopeful light upon the reparations case. It has been felt that whatever defects there may be in the plans of the Dawes committee, they nevertheless represent a real step forward toward settling something done in relieving the tangled condition which has so long held back the progress of business. Very encouraging also have been the Washington reports with respect to proposals for radical railroad legislation. Many of these have seemingly been quite definitely laid on the shelf, and there is no apparent reason to think that much will be done about them at this session of congress. The news that Governor Smith's plan for a 25 percent cut in the state income tax is assumed of adoption has also been an item of optimistic support. It seems strange that the democrats at Albany and the democrats at Washington should be so far apart in their ideas of tax reform. General business conditions remain encouraging, with the demand for steel and with spring orders for automobiles moving ahead on a very appreciable scale. The reduction in price, which has been the source of disturbance in the cotton market, is, however, bringing the values of the raw material down to a level of correspondence with the prices which experience shows can be charged for the finished product without stopping consumption. This ought to result in restoring activity in sections of the textile industry which have been comparatively idle.

The Business Situation
Except for a few branches of business, underlying phases of the trade position as a whole continue healthy. Anaconda Copper, by passing its dividend, gave an unfavorable impression of the status of the copper industry as a whole, and yet the fact of the case shows that there is a large turnover even though it is not very profitable to some classes of mines at present prices. The reduction in price of the regular dividend by the Kennecott company is an evidence of this. The leather industry, too, has not been particularly fortunate of late, all improvement has been shown by some companies. Nevertheless, annual reports of some of the leading leather companies have been anything but good. Outside of these two branches of industry, and sections of the textile trade that are below normal, business conditions are good to excellent. Cheap automobiles are expected to sell 15 or 20 percent more in volume this year than last. Activity in building construction since the first of the year has been at a record high level. Freight traffic has continued in very large volume. In spite of a winter decline in demand for railway equipment, the showing of activity and profits of these companies up to date has been good. Tobacco production is large, with prices high and values of shares in that group correspondingly strong. Notwithstanding an apparent increase in business failures during January and early February, explanation is found in the fact that special conditions in the northwest apparently enlarged commercial mortality due to special local conditions.

Financial Prospects Excellent
Financial conditions continue excellent. The week past has brought the semi-official announcement that no change in Federal Reserve discount rates need be expected. This has tended to stabilize money rates and bond values. Abundant lending power is present in practically all classes of banking institutions. The reserve ratio for this week was 86.6 percent. Wall Street loans continue moderate, probably not exceeding $1,400,000,000. Foreign exchange has shown little power of advance during the week, but on the other hand it has apparently reached the lower limit of its movement and, with the good news concerning reparations, ought shortly to recover. Buying power as applied to new securities continues large, and several issues recently placed upon the market have been favorably regarded. General conditions of notation and sale of securities have apparently been so good that there seems to be no reason to doubt continued progress in the refunding of short term obligations coming due and, in consequence, Secretary Mellon's spring financing is expected to be effected shortly in the form of $500,000,000 of Treasury notes, which will undoubtedly be quickly taken up.

Market Review and Outlook
From a market standpoint, the technical position seems to have distinctly improved during the past week as a result of the reaction which has recently taken place. It is true that buying power has not been strong, but on the other hand there has been readiness to absorb stocks at prices which, in many instances, have been brought about in many minds, investors apparently refusing to commit themselves extensively until they can get more definite information as to what the congress is likely to follow as to various questions which are now pending before it, particularly the tax measure, which in the opinion of many is by far the most important question this is open at the present time. With respect to the latter, as before stated, prospects of a substantial reduction in rates are certainly brighter at the present writing than they were a week ago.

Wall Street Review.
New York.—Uncertain price movements characterized the opening of today's stock market, which, after a fairly quiet start, was followed by a sharp decline in the French franc to another new low. Prices continued to drift in a rather aimless manner. Dealings in the week-end closing session, which were strong yesterday, were rather restricted. Several of the oils moved up. The closing stock market sales approximated 225,000 shares.

A Scrap of Paper for Your Savings

The money you have saved represents, perhaps, years of toil and self denial. Every dollar stands for something—for the sweat of your brow or the sweat of your brain, and the strength to resist spending all you have earned.

Perhaps you have spent the best part of your life building a business, and have reached the point where, with a hard-earned cash reserve, the future is provided for. Or, you may be a wage-earner who by thrift, has accumulated a nest-egg for yourself and family, or a widow with a competence from your husband's estate. Whatever your station in life may be, the money you have represents the honest labor of somebody.

For these hard-earned dollars, the "blue-sky" pirate, Adroit in argument, and lavish in promises, offers you nothing but a worthless scrap of paper.

It's a mighty poor exchange for YOU.

The RADIO PROGRAM

"Nearer My God to Thee" is the favorite song of the "Smoke eaters" who fight the nation's fires, according to a survey made at the radio broadcasting station of William Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, Voliva's 50 piece band "Thursday" night broadcast the number, dedicated to the firemen, after requests that it be played had been received from fire fighters in three cities. In a letter from a fireman at McComb, Tenn., the reason the song is loved by them is given. He said: "I believe that the news items of any daily paper can show you why the fireman like to hear that beautiful piece played or sung at any time. It brings back to the fireman the memories of some pal who went to his reward trying to save life and destruction of property." The message, which resulted in the rendition of the number, was signed "From one of the smoke eaters at McComb, Tenn."

During the broadcasting of a musical program given during the recent food show in Cincinnati from the radio, national commander, recently transmitted, in which he made a strong plea for the soldier bonus and attacked Secretary Mellon, was cut. The censoring explained that all speeches attacking the government were censored.

Censoring of broadcasts by station WXYZ in both cases, was criticized. The specific charge, made by Samuel E. Aronowitz, formerly New York state commander of the Legion, is that the speech of John H. Cullen, national commander of orchestra, was censored.

"NOT A DARNED PAIR!"

JEFFERSON

Jefferson—The first formal concert of the Jefferson high school auditorium Monday night, 7:30, was a success. The concert will include a repertoire of songs, waltzes, marches, polkas, schottische, and a number of songs by various members of the band. The school now owns a large bass horn, a medium size bass, an alto saxophone, two bass drums and one snare drum. All of these instruments have been purchased with money earned by the school orchestra. The school intends to follow the policy of earning its own instruments and therefore will charge a small admission to the concert Monday night.

There will be no spring vacation for Jefferson high school this year. The school board voted a mid-year spring vacation and close school May 23. The majority of the faculty and students voted in favor of this plan.

Merlin Brose and Edwin Duberlin, students of Whitewater normal, spent the week-end at their homes here.

$4,000 PROFIT OFF GRADE HERD

Guernsey Herd Developed from Shorthorns Proves a Money Maker.

By L. J. M. FRENCH

Taylor Brothers, east of Janesville, on the Milton road, are good farmers. It is rather refreshing to go to their farm, look over their herd, inspect their cow testing association records, review their story and above all other things—no one, not even the politician—can convince them agriculture has come to the eternal bonanza. They made money off their dairy herd and it is down in black and white, and in the bank.

Recently an address was made by D. C. Grubb, Fort Atkinson, before the Rotary club in Janesville, during which he declared the status of agriculture was the best in years. As compared to this side there is no story of the family hearer's predicament, no story of the family hearer's predicament, no story of the family hearer's predicament.

There are too many farmers actually losing money operating their farms to say that farming is at its best status. At the same time there are too many, like the Taylors, who show a profit, to say that farming is a failure. Generally the successful ones are farmers "who made" farming pay. Just plain farming is not paying, no matter whether it is a failure or a success.

Started with Shorthorns

The 28 herd of cattle in the Taylor farm made a profit of $4,075 last year above feed costs, and returned $5.50 in milk to every $1 spent in feed. This showing, along with poultry, crops and other things, made the farm proved their farm to be profitable. It was the dairy herd that put the money in the bank. Such records are an exception, not the average.

A decision was made to turn the farm into a dairy. There were fair grade Shorthorns on the farm at that time. Instead of selling the old herd and starting in with entirely dairy cows, the Taylors did the next best thing. They bought a registered Guernsey bull. They kept breeding up the herd in quality, changing herd sires every two years, keeping the herd out of the good cover and promptly weaning the bulls and poor heifers.

A Good Farm Herd

A critical livestock audit and fault with the Taylor herd. There are no real show cows among the bunch—but how they can milk and return profits. Some of the older cows show marked Shorthorn type and a few show Holstein characteristics, and they lack the general fine show type, however, they have the udders, body development, are well groomed, and show good breeding in appearance.

While the Taylors have purchased good bulls they never paid a long price for their herd sires. The most they ever paid for a herd bull was $2,000. They obtained the best breeding and production backing in a bull that a reasonable amount of money would obtain.

RADIO PROVES AID TO ILL. FARMERS

Survey by I. A. A. Shows How Farmers Use Radio for Business and Pleasure.

Replicas from 73 Illinois county farm bureaus in a radio survey just completed by the Illinois Agricultural Association revealed that there are 20,815 radio receiving sets on farms in these counties. The survey would indicate that between seven and 10 per cent of the rural population of the state have installed receiving sets.

The survey was made for the purpose of determining the extent of the use of radio on farms, the type of programs most desired, practical benefits of the radio, and for the planning of programs to meet the demands of the constantly growing army of farm radio fans, state I. A. A. officials.

Only about 25 per cent of the farm owning radio sets make their own, the rest being manufactured sets, the survey shows.

One of the questions asked in the survey was "What sort of radio programs do such gatherings use?" The most popular reply to this was, "Musical programs and occasionally farm lectures."

Use Market Reports

Individual farmers, farm bureaus and banks told of practical benefits from the daily market and weather reports. Many farmers, near St. Louis, furnished this example:

CARE OF CHICKS DECLARED VITAL

Do Not Feed Baby Chicks and Keep Them Warm and Dry, Urges Porter.

This being the season of the year when farm people, especially the farm housewife's thoughts turn to the care of her baby chicks, Porter, a poultry expert, has some words to say.

Day old chicks from established and accredited hatcheries is the popular way to start, improve or enlarge the farm flock. The day of the peckish setting hen is about over for the machine has proven more of a benefit, even with baby chicks the farmer has troubles, generally through the lack of experience or lack of proper equipment to take proper care of the fluffy and cheap downy birds. Denied the watchful care of the mother hen, hatchery chicks need careful attention in the early stages to grow into vigorous, profitable chickens that will bring in the egg money.

When the chick has hatched, it is absorbing the yolk of the egg, and this is declared to be sufficient feed for the first 48 hours, according to Fred Porter, associated with the Blackhawk Hatchery, Janesville.

one is sure to be almost fatal. The chick is tender, needs warmth, and to be protected fully from moisture. Oftentimes new owners think the new born chicks need feed when they begin chirping but it is best to keep feed away for the first 48 hours.

"We always put the chicks under a brooder in the evening and give each one four meals, as we believe it is the best tonic a chick can get. We give nothing to drink but sour milk for four weeks, after which time we give fresh, clean water," continued Porter.

"After the chicks are 48 hours old, they are fed a mash five times a day and only allowed what they will eat in 15 minutes. This is fed on heavy paper so that the remaining feed will not become spoiled. On the fourth day mash is put into hoppers and the growing chicks are allowed to scatter on top of the litter. As soon as they find out what it is, it is put deeper in the litter so they will have to dig for it. Exercising is necessary for growing chicks."

Careful use of the brooder is necessary. When the stove or heater plant is giving out too much heat, the chicks rooster on the outside and when it is not hot enough they crowd near the fire, naturally adjusting themselves to the best temperature. Dampness or chilling is almost fatal to baby chicks no matter how good the stock.

Poultry Meetings

Both chicken and turkey hens, while sitting, if they are used in hatching, should be dusted with sodium fluo-ur, using a small pinch under the wing, over the back, under the joint, over the back, under the body and around the vent.

MOHAMMEDANS SEEK RESTORATION OF CALIPHATE

South front of the magnificent Dolma Baghche place, on the Bosphorus at Constantinople, and (insert) Abdul Medjid Effendi.

While Abdul Medjid Effendi, caliph of all Islam, is pining in exile in Switzerland with only two of his wives and his favorite son, Mohammedans from all parts of the world are preparing to gather in conference, probably in Egypt, with a view of restoring the caliphate. King Fend of Egypt is mentioned for the office.

The grand national assembly at Angora officially abolished the caliphate in Turkey, an office which corresponded with the papacy in Rome. The millions in gold formerly considered the property of the caliph was not carried into exile by Abdul Medjid Effendi. One of the problems of the modernists responsible for his deposit will be the disposal of his property, which includes the magnificent Dolma palace on the Bosphorus, and five others. Not the least of his possessions to be taken care of are two of his four wives, left behind him and 800 concubines, in addition to a retinue of eunuchs and other servants.

SENATOR DENIES HE VOTED MONEY INTO OWN PURSE

L. C. Phipps.

All of the accusations being made about officials in Washington aren't connected with the oil scandal. Senator L. C. Phipps of Colorado, Republican, is denying a charge made by Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona, Democrat, that he voted as a member of the senate committee on appropriations to put money into his own pocket. The charge has to do with a reclamation project in Arizona. Senator Phipps avows his vote was unbiased by his personal interest in the matter.

CANDLER NAME IN COURT AGAIN; BEAUTY SUES SON FOR $100,000

Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, and inserts of Walter Candler and Mrs. Walter Candler.

Charges preferred against Walter Candler, son of the multi-millionaire Atlanta Coca-Cola king, by Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, noted beauty, will be aired in court at Decatur, Ga., shortly. In a suit for $100,000 she accuses Candler of having attacked her in a stateroom on the S. S. Bengaria, bound for Paris. Mrs. Candler is going into court at her husband's side, firmly believing in him. Candler's father recently won a breach of promise suit filed against him.

"The war has worked havoc with my spiritual conception of the part. I have become almost a skeptic, not in dogma, but in the world's acceptance of Christ's supreme doctrine of love." Thus spoke Anton Lang, world famous as the interpreter of the Christus in the Oberammergau Passion Play in explaining why he will never again essay the part. Nor will he permit his son, Karl, to enact the role in which his father has appeared three times, at 25, at 35, and two years ago at 47. The statement was made in Chicago where he is with some of the Passion Players on a tour of exhibition of wood-carving.

OWN EXPERIENCE IN LOVE TANGLE GIVES R. STRAUSS PLOT FOR OPERA

A personal experience which caused him and his wife many unhappy days and narrowly missed wrecking their home, is the basis for the libretto of the new opera by Richard Strauss, one of the greatest living composers. Its name is "Intermezzo" and it will be produced next season in Germany and Austria. Frau Strauss happened to open one of his letters which apparently revealed a love affair with another woman. The composer was surprised as his wife, it took him some days to find that another man had been using the name of the composer in an affair with a young girl.

WHERE TWO MILLION GALLONS OF AMMONIA NITRATE EXPLODED

Above: General view of the burning wreckage of the TNT building at Nixon, N. J., after the blast. Below: A frame residence many rods from the scene of the blast wrecked by the force of it.

A miracle, army officers call it. The force of the explosion of one million gallons of ammonia nitrate in tanks and 1,350,000 gallons in tank railroad cars at Nixon, N. J., shocked Northwestern New Jersey, New York City and some of Long Island, but it did not set off an enormous store of explosives at the Raritan arsenal of the army, separated from the Nixon plant by a wire fence only. More than fifteen persons were killed, and 100 injured. Explosion of the arsenal would have made lower New York city a target, it is believed.

MARKS OF PRISON ILLNESS SEEN IN FACE OF GANDHI

One of the first acts of the Ramsay MacDonald Labor movement in Great Britain was to order the release of Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Non-cooperation movement against British rule, in India, imprisoned for preaching rebellion. This, the first photograph of him taken since his release to reach this country, shows the effects of the illness which led to his release.

She paid a terrible price for a few hours of freedom. She may never breathe free air again. She is back in a cell, charged now with the brutal murder of Miss Louise Richardson, 70-year-old teacher and matron in the Indiana Women's Prison, where she was a prisoner. When the fugitive girl was arrested property of the matron was found upon her.

CONGRESS TO PASS ON PROPOSAL FOR NEW WHITE HOUSE

The White House (below) and a conception of what the White House should be. This drawing, by Lee Rombotis of the University of Pennsylvania, won for him the Paris prize, a scholarship in architecture amounting to $5,000.

Some time in the near future Congress is expected to give its attention to proposals for the construction of a new residence for the president of the United States.

The present White House was declared unsafe in a report of the superintendent of buildings and grounds. Little or nothing has been done to it in the way of reconstruction since 1902. The south portion of the mansion, the first part constructed, was completed in 1823 and six years later, in 1829, the north portion was built, giving it its present aspect.

MOTORIST'S

Lubricating Oil Should Be Changed Now to Summer Grade

The winter is a hard time for any automobile, as the weather in most parts of the country is too cold to do any more work around the car than is absolutely necessary.

One of the first things to attend to is your lubrication system. The oil you have been using during the cold weather is generally much lighter than that used during the summer. The warm weather will be with us in a few weeks, and it is just about time to think of changing to the summer oil. The light oil you have been using during the winter was necessary during the cold weather, but is altogether too light when the warm weather arrives.

Now is the time the old oil should be drained out of the crankcase and the oil pan removed and all sediment that may have collected cleaned out. Last week I explained how water, gasoline and road grit collect in the crankcase, rendering the oil worthless as a lubricant after you have run about 500 miles.

The engine will run with this diluted oil, but it is not being lubricated properly, very rapid wear taking place in your bearings and cylinder walls. This wear begins to be noticeable when you find your engine does not run as smoothly and quietly as it did when you first got it. If you run your engine for long periods without changing the oil, you can rely on it that you are shortening the life of your car from 50% to 75%.

The best time to drain the oil out of the crankcase, is just after you have come in from a run and while the engine is warm. Take out the drain plug and let the crankcase drain.

There is usually a screen used to filter the oil at the oil filler hole, and if you have a force feed lubrication system, there will be another screen to filter the oil at the pump. Remove both of these and clean with gasoline. Usually the pump screen can be removed when you unscrew the drain plug, but sometimes it cannot be removed until the oil pan is taken off.

Now remove the oil pan by taking out the bolts that hold it to the upper part of the crankcase. Sometimes it is necessary to disconnect an oil pipe before the pan can be removed. Use care if this operation is necessary. Be careful when removing the pan to see that you do not injure the gasket. If it is broken or injured while taking off the pan, use a new one. A good stiff brush and some gasoline will enable you to clean the pan thoroughly. After replacing the pan, fill up with about half a gallon of special flushing oil or a light lubricating oil, not kerosene, then turn the engine over with the starter for about a minute, then remove the plug and allow the flushing oil to drain off.

After flushing out, fill up with fresh oil and allow engine to run for a time, then examine the joint around the oil pan to see that it is oil tight. If it shows signs of leaking anywhere, try tightening up the bolts. If this does not stop the leak then you will have to fit a new gasket. By removing the oil pan, then flushing out as well, you give the engine lubrication system a thorough cleaning out, and add many months to the life of the engine.

At one time it was quite general practice to flush out the crankcase with kerosene after it was drained. This is not done any more, however, for it has been found to do a great deal more harm than good.

In an engine using the splash system of lubrication, the kerosene lodges in the various depressions and pockets and cannot be completely removed without dismantling the engine. The kerosene that is left in the engine mixes with the fresh oil, diluting it, undoing all the good work you did when you drained off the old oil.

Kerosene will cut grit and sediment better than oil, but it will also carry the grit to bearings where it does considerable harm. If you drain the crankcase just after you come in from a run and while the engine is warm, you will drain off all of the grit and sediment that is in circulation. It is only necessary to remove the oil pan once a season, after that the oil should be changed regularly every 500 miles.

Listen to what the broadcasting stations are saying

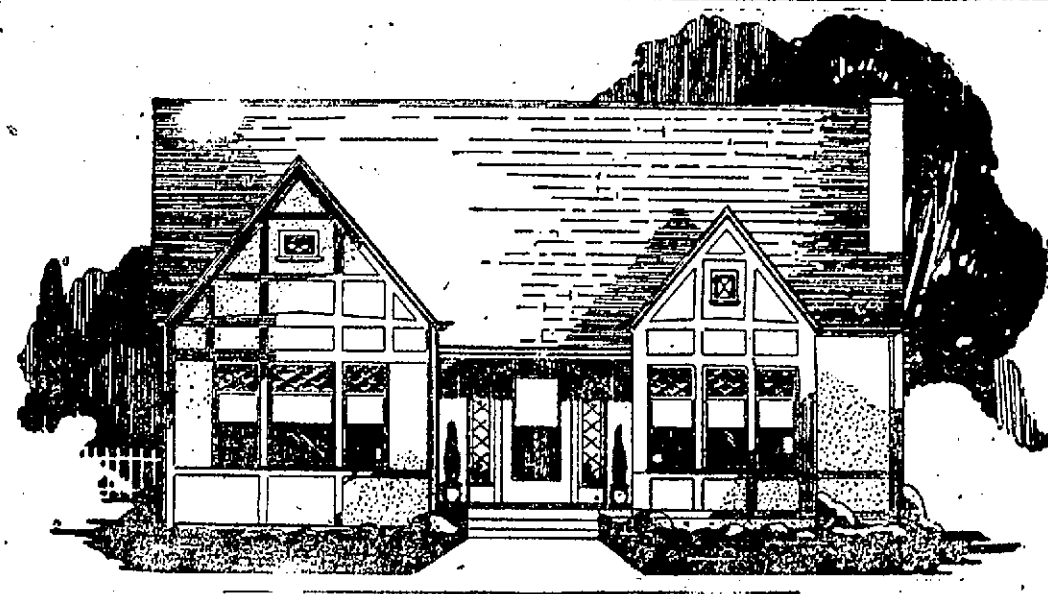

From everywhere the recommendation comes to you to Build a Home—Own Your Own Home—become independent and assure yourself and family protection, happiness and contentment.

These suggestions are timely, because you are in a better position to undertake Home Ownership now than ever before. You are making more money and these increased earnings should go into a home. On every hand attractive inducements are offered that you may become a home owner—money is plentiful at reasonable rates, building materials and competent labor is available at prices consistent with general conditions, desirable home sites will never be cheaper. Those who are desirous of becoming home owners are taking advantage of present opportunities and to such an extent that more new homes are under construction than ever before; this is just as it should be, and thinking folks are awakening to the fact that nothing can be gained by putting off home building any longer. Each day you defer building or buying a home deprives you and your family of that much pleasure and protection which you and they are rightfully entitled to.

Home Building is a privilege, an undertaking which opportunity offers to all, and when entered into with fixed determinations to succeed, regardless of obstacles, there isn't a chance in the world for you to lose, and before you realize it the home will be yours, and with the paid-up certificate and abstract carefully filed away for safe keeping you will be happy indeed in the thought that you have accomplished a wonderful purpose.

A typical English bungalow home of such distinctiveness as to make it unusual in the extreme. Its general exterior design and arrangement shows the great care which has been given in executing the plans, not one detail has been overlooked that would add to its attractiveness and make it practical and substantial.

The same competent thought and efforts are incorporated into the well arranged and conveniently grouped rooms, and surely a plan embodying so many popular and practical features cannot help but make strong appeals and create desires for a home to be built from these complete detailed plans.
